

Meet the December Artist Dorothy Douglas

Dot Douglas declares that “Painting is an expression of my love for God and His beautiful creation.” Using mainly oils, she acknowledges this beauty through her favorite subject matter--landscapes. Whether capturing the delicacy of stacked china cups or the exuberance of her granddaughter on a soccer field, she exhibits wonderful skill and an artist’s eye.

Dot has studied art under local renowned artist Paul Penczner. She also studied for many years with Sandee Sander, whose impressionistic style and use of brilliant transparent colors have had particular influence on her work. Other art mentors who have influenced Dorothy are Artists Tom Lynch, Fred Rawlinson, Brett Funderbirk and Ann Templeton. In short, she has worked hard to develop her craft and her dedication shows!

Dot has exhibited her art in one of the galleries in the Germantown Mall with the Artists’ Co-Op and she is a member of the Bartlett Art Association. She has also displayed her art at St. Francis Hospital in Bartlett.

Come by the Collierville Library any day of the month of December to view her work.
